

For this year's Management Consulting Division PDW program we are delighted to bring you a rich blend of opportunities to experience life "at the interface" of scholarship and practice.

Highlights include Friday's exploration of values-based change through storytelling;

Saturday's consulting roundtable where seasoned practitioners will answer your questions; industry-focused sessions featuring lessons learned from IBM, the Federal Government, Walgreen's and more; and even a chance to explore consulting in cross-cultural contexts.

For those teaching in practice-based programs, we are pleased to offer sessions designed to help you bridge the gap.

Finally, students, don't miss the MC doctoral consortium! This is a great opportunity to bounce your research topic off of some of the great minds in our field. This year's workshops provide a rich blend of international practice and scholarship in keeping with this year's conference theme, "at the interface."

See you in Atlanta!
